

Soldier,

Welcome to the US Army Mission Support Battalion. The organization that you are joining is a one of a kind unit that plays a vital role in supporting the hardest working soldier in the Army, the recruiter. The battalion consists of the Mobile Exhibit Company, National Convention Division, and two National Science Center Vans. Through these organizations, the battalion designs constructs, and man recruiting exhibits throughout the United States. The battalion also provides graphic and audiovisual support to the Army Recruiting Brigades and Battalions.

To assure that your transition to the battalion is a smooth one, you will have a sponsor assigned to you. Your sponsor will assist you through any problems that you may encounter in your arrival to the battalion. The duty uniform to report into the Battalion is the Class A uniform with all authorized awards and decorations. Your sponsor will be sending you a welcome packet but until then, please familiarize yourself with the post installation by checking out the Mission Support Battalion's website.

We look forward to your arrival.

Robert E. Woods
US Army
Command Sergeant Major