Biographical Sketch

Sergeant 1st Class Paul Sachs is a food service specialist serving as the Operations NonCommissioned Officer in charge of show scheduling for the United States Army Parachute Team.

Sachs enlisted in the Army in October 1990, and after completion of his Basic and Advanced Individual Training he has served tours of duty in Italy and at Fort Bragg, NC with the 82nd Airborne Division.

He took up skydiving in 1995 and after attending the 2000 Golden Knight Assessment and Selection Program he was 'knighted' into the elite unit.

As a Golden Knight Sachs schedules shows throughout the United States for the Team to perform, and has logged more than 3,100 freefall parachute jumps and has earned his High Altitude Low Opening (HALO) wings.

He enjoys time with family and golfing.
